CITY WILL BORROW $250,000 TO WIPE OUT ITS OVERDRAFT

Negotiations whereby the city of Wichita Falls can borrow $250,000 to relieve its present financial condition, were started Monday by the city council, and there is every reason to believe that the loan will be made.

The money will be borrowed at six per cent, and is to be repaid at the rate of $25,000 annually for ten years.

With that amount of money in hand, the city can wipe out existing overdrafts and floating indebtedness and put some money into the general fund, and while its actual indebtedness will of course be as great as ever, it will be in much more satisfactory shape than at present.

The negotiations were undertaken at a called meeting of the city council, attended by a representative of a Wichita, Kan., firm which handles such loans. The same concern recently loaned the city of Fort Worth $550,000 on terms similar to those offered Wichita Falls. The negotiations were not concluded Monday morning, as several minor details are to be arranged, but all members of the council agreed to the principal features of the transaction.

By retiring the loan on the installment plan, the council will not seriously burden succeeding administrations, and material relief will be given to the treasury's existing condition, which has been a cause of both hardship and embarrassment to city officials and employes.

SECTION FOUR OF FUTURES TRADING ACT HELD ILLEGAL

DECISION IS RENDERED BY THE UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

OTHER SECTIONS OF THE LAW CAN BE ENFORCED

Sustains Sections Empowering Secretary to Investigate Boards of Trade.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The supreme court today held section four of the futures trading act was unenforcible. It held that section three, nine and other sections could be enforced.

Section nine of the law which was sustained by the court empowers the secretary of agriculture to investigate boards of trade, require them to submit statistical and other information except confidential trade matter, and to publish reports to the public.

The court announced that the injunction against the Chicago board of trade and its officers and the injunction against the collector of internal revenue and the district attorney should be granted so far as section four is concerned, and the regulations of the act interwoven within it.

The decree of the lower district court was reversed to the extent stated. In announcing his dissent Justice Brandies stated briefly that he could not agree with the opinion of the court which in substance held the law invalid.

Section three of the act provided for a tax of 20 cents a bushel upon "privileges," "puts and calls," "bids and offers," and other so-called speculative trades.

Section four declared to be unenforceable, proposed to levy a virtually prohibitive tax of 20 cents per bushel on all future trading banned under the act. It made exceptions of actual owners of grain of legitimate hedging contracts.

Tornado Carries Woman 40 Yards Without Injury

WACO, TEXAS, May 15.—The rain storm here this morning developed into a tornado 11 miles south of the city, at Downsville, and considerable damage is reported, but no fatalities so far. The home of M. C. Dorsey was demolished and Mrs. Dorsey was hurled through the air for some distance, but was uninjured. She was lying in the bed when the crash came. The house was torn from around her and she was picked up with the mattress, carried 40 yards and deposited on the ground. She arose from the bed and through a terrific rain and hail made her way to a neighbor's house.

Wreckage along the San Antonio and Aransas Pass railroad delayed incoming trains this morning. The tornado swept across the track near Downsville, tearing telegraph and telephone poles from the ground and dropping them on the track.

The church and school houses at Downsville were wrecked. The seed shed of the Sap Gin company was torn down and material was scattered over the lot.

Hail ruined the crops in a strip of territory a half mile wide and extending about five miles

THIRTEEN PEOPLE KILLED AND MORE THAN 70 INJURED

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, May 15.—Thirteen persons were killed and more than 70 injured today when a tram car carrying a holiday crowd was catapulted into a deep canyon near Santa Fe, a small village adjacent to the capital, after colliding with another car at the top of a hill. Most of the victims were women and children.

The car filled with pleasure seekers, on their way to Desierto de los Leones, a popular resort near the capital, crashed head on into a city bound car. The collision did little damage, but the car sped backward down the incline, the brakes failing to hold. It left the rails at a sharp curve and was hurled into the gully.

There were no Americans in the car, but several Germans and other foreigners were on board. The death list will probably be augmented, as many of the injured are in a serious condition.

LABOR PLANS TO TAKE A PROMINENT PART IN THE IRISH ELECTIONS

By Associated Press.

DUBLIN, May 15.—Labor proposed to take a prominent part in the coming Irish elections. Thomas Johnson, secretary of the Irish labor party, announced here yesterday that labor had decided to seek a representative Irish parliament because it had a definite social, economic and industrial program to put through.

The labor party, he said, stood independent of both the free state and republican parties, and went forward in its own program, devoting its energies to the workers' interests. Other speakers expressed the hope of the eventual establishment of a commonwealth.

Senator George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia is opposed by Congressman-at-Large William J. Burke.

David A. Reed of Pittsburgh is the regular organization candidate for the unexpired term of the late Senator Knox and also for the full term beginning next March. He has the support of both the Alter and Pinchot groups.

GENOA CONFERENCE TO BE RECONVENED JUNE 15TH AT HAGUE

SUBCOMMISSION AGREES TO PLAN PROPOSED BY LLOYD GEORGE.

INVITE UNITED STATES TO ENTER CONFERENCE

Decision Will Likely Be Reached at Meeting of Cabinet On Tuesday.

GENOA, May 15.—The political sub-commission of the economic conference today unanimously approved the agreement reached yesterday among the convening powers to hold another meeting at The Hague beginning June 15 to further examine the Russian question.

GENOA, May 15.—The Genoa economic conference will be reconvened June 15 at the Hague to discuss Russian questions, if the plan agreed to at private conference of the inviting powers is accepted by the sub-commission on Russian affairs at its meeting tomorrow.

This decision to postpone action relative to Russia is prompted largely by the desire of the European powers to induce the United States to participate, and apparently is merely a means of dissolving the Genoa conference without admitting that the differences between France and Great Britain regarding treatment of Russian problems cannot be reconciled in Genoa.

WILL CRITICIZE THE FIRST PART OF RUSSIAN REPLY

By Associated Press

GENOA, May 15.—The French delegation said last night that the rejoinder which it is proposed to send to the Russian delegates will contain some criticism of the first part of the Russian reply. Many of the powers consider this part of the reply objectionable and think it should be vigorously taken up. In it the Russians resorted to a line of argument which the powers regard as a propagandist attack on the governmental systems of European countries.

The rejoinder, as arranged today by the allied leaders, will suggest to the Russians that they convene their experts at The Hague June 26 to discuss credits, debts and the status of foreign property in Russia. The Russians are asked to promise that during the conference with the experts of other countries they will indulge neither in aggression nor propaganda.

In the meantime the powers other than Russia represented at Genoa would agree to recommend to their home governments that their experts be sent to The Hague June 15. This would permit mutual consultation on the program to be discussed later with the Russians.

The hope is expressed by the French delegation that the United States will be prevailed on to send their experts for the meeting June 15 which will start the machinery of the conference in operation

Neither France nor Belgium will sign the note to the Russians, according to present plans.

CHARGE UNITED STATES HOSTILE TOWARD RUSSIA

LONDON, May 15—"America has intervened in the Genoa conference in a sense hostile to the soviets," says the Genoa correspondent of the Daily Herald (labor organ), whose close relations with sovetism are well known.

"For two days," adds the correspondent, "we have lived in the presence of a great capitalistic conspiracy against Russia disguised as a conciliatory compromise"

M. Tchitcherin, head of the Russian delegation, is quoted by the correspondent as saying "the United States is the most hostile of all nations against us and although the plan proposed by Ambassador Child with the support of the Standard Oil observers now in Genoa is disowned by Washington as unauthorized, it nevertheless represents the views of the American government and the basis on which the United States will participate in the commission to be set up at the Hague or elsewhere"

ARE WITHOUT WEAPONS AND DRESSED IN RAGS

LONDON, May 14—A dispatch to the Times from Hong Kong says it is learned that the troops of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, head of the southern government at Canton, who are declared to be marching northward from Canton are a "rabble." Many of the men are without weapons and are dressed in rags. It is added they are undisciplined and that gambling and opium smoking are rife among them.

NO CONCLUSION REACHED ON INVITATION EXTENDED

WASHINGTON, May 15—A communication from American Ambassador Child, reporting that the United States government had been invited to participate in the newly planned economic conference at The Hague was received today at the state department, but officials indicated that no immediate determination regarding it would be reached.

Until they had an opportunity to study the proposal in detail, officials would make no comment regarding it. The general impression given by them was that the question probably would be discussed at tomorrow's cabinet meeting and that some action might follow.

INVITATION IS HANDED TO AMERICAN AMBASSADOR

GENOA, May 15.—Prime Minister Lloyd George announced this afternoon that he had handed to Richard Washburn Child, the American ambassador, last evening a copy of the proposal for the commission to sit at The Hague to discuss Russian affairs. He said this had been done so that the United States would be fully advised in case Russia accepts

Mr Lloyd George expressed the hope that the United States would see fit to join the mixed commission.

THIRTEEN HUNDRED MINERS ATTEND THE MUSKOGEE MEETING

PROBLEMS OF SERIOUS NATURE CONFRONT THE ORGANIZATION.

PRESIDENT LEWIS IS EXPECTED TO ATTEND

Question of Conserving Defense Fund One of Important Matters Presented.

By Associated Press.

MUSKOGEE, OKLA., May 15.—With John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America, expected to arrive soon with the announced intention of defending the union administration against expected attacks of its enemies, the miners of district 21 opened a special convention here today that leaders freely admitted faces more problems of a serious nature than any that they have met since 1914 Thirteen hundred miners in Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma are represented.

Matters connected with the national coal strike are expected to receive the attention of the delegates, with the dissension existing between the factions within the union supporting John Wilkinson, district president, and Alexander Howat, deposed leader of the Kansas miners, virtually certain to come to the surface before the convention closes, according to the opinion of those in attendance as the meeting was called to order.

Outstanding in the action to be taken in regard to the national strike is the decision expected on the payment of strike benefits. The constitution of the union provides that after six weeks strike benefits of $5 a week are to be paid striking miners. These benefits become effective today.

District union officials have pointed out that in view of the probability that the present strike will be of long duration the defense fund of the union from which strike benefits are paid will become depleted before it is most urgently needed, and it was said that the convention will be asked to vote on a proposition of deferring payment of the benefits until a more acute state of the strike is reachd, or of suspending them entirely

It was explained that several hundred miners in Texas who had been idle long before the national strike was called, are in serious circumstances and will lose not only their regular benefit but also a special sustenance fund for the support of their families when the defense fund is depleted. For this reason, district officials explain, they are attempting to preserve it as long as possible

EIGHT LABOR MEN UNDER INDICTMENT TO HAVE HEARINGS

DEFENSE ATTORNEYS WILL ASK FOR HABEAS CORPUS WRITS.

PROSECUTION CLAIMS EVIDENCE TO CONVICT

Charge That Labor Leaders Have a Million Dollar Defense Fund.

CHICAGO, May 15—Eight labor men indicted on murder charges in connection with Chicago's labor war will have preliminary hearings today before Judge Kickham Scanlon of the criminal court.

Their attorneys have been instructed to ask for habeas corpus writs, thus forcing the state, if it wishes to hold them without bail, to produce evidence upon which hanging verdicts are to be asked for the labor leaders—"Big Tim" Murphy, head of the gas house workers' union; Con Shea, of the theatrical janitors' union, and Fred Mader, president of the Chicago building trades council.

For their legal fight, it is alleged by Henry Barret Chamberlain, of the Chicago crime commission, the labor men are equipped with a million dollar "slush fund"

Police and state's attorneys connected with the case assert they have sufficient evidence to warrant continued confinement of the indicted men without bail.

While authorities are silent on information contained in the confessions, they say they have obtained, and the names of the confessors, it is believed that Harry (Smash) Hanson, Isadore Bravetman, John Miller and Robert McCloud have confessed. Miller is said by police to be the owner of the car from which the shots were fired killing two policemen.

The building strike, scheduled by Mader for next Monady, and involving 65,000 men, has unofficially been called off, it is said

According to D. M. Magen, conductor on the train, the holdup occurred one mile from Jaynes, Ariz, when a group of eight or ten men flagged the train. The conductor, seeing the cars slow down, stepped on the platform of the coach but shots from the bandits forced him inside.

The express and mail cars were cut off from the coach and sleepers and pulled down the track for a few car lengths On failing to gain entrance to the car the robbers fled, firing several shots at Engineer Reed.

CHILD LABOR LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL COURT'S DECISION

WASHINGTON, May 15—The child labor law was today held by the supreme court to be unconstitutional and not valid

The decision of the court was rendered in a case brought by the government against the Drexel Furniture company of North Carolina and was one of three cases brought in that state testing the validity of the law and in all of which the United States district court decided against the government.

The law held unconstitutional today by the court was enacted after the supreme court had declared invalid an act of congress which excluded from interstate commerce products in whose manufacture child labor had been used The law affected by today's decision was virtually the same except that it imposed an excise tax of 10 per cent upon the annual net profits of establishments employing child labor Opponents of the law contended the new law was an unconstitutional invasion of the police powers of the states

SOVIET DELEGATION SAYS THEY WANT IN LEAGUE OF NATIONS

GENEVA, May 15—The soviet delegates at Genoa have informed the league of nations experts that Russia desires to co-operate with the league and become a member within a reasonable time, provided the conference succeeds from the soviet viewpoint. The league's representatives have just reported this to the league council in session here

The Russians added that if the Genoa conference failed, Moscow would continue to oppose the league on the theory that Russia could expect nothing from an organization composed chiefly of member states with which it had been unable to reach an agreement

League officials here regard the bolshevik overtures for peace significant in view of Moscow's bitter opposition to the organization in the past. They believe it will only be a question of time when Russia must be admitted to the league if Genoa produces an all-European agreement with the soviet government.

ORIENT RAILROAD IS SEEKING A DIVISION OF THROUGH FREIGHT

APPLICATION IS MADE TO INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

WILL BE OPPOSED BY THE BIG TRUNK LINES

No Large Terminals Along the Line From Wichita, Kan., to Alpine, Texas.

By CHAS S HAYDEN
Washington Correspondent Wichita Daily Times

WASHINGTON May 15—The interstate commerce commission today is hearing the application of Representatives for the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient railroad asking for a larger division in freight earnings. Without this E H Shaufler, general traffic manager, declares in a brief which has been filed, it will be impossible for the Orient to maintain service much longer

The proposal made by Traffic Manager Shaufler is somewhat unique and has attracted much attention among railroad officials advised as to its purport. It will be bitterly fought by the big trunk lines, as under it the commission will be empowered to make increased divisions to all short line roads and provide for routing of much unrouted freight over these roads

It is pointed out in the brief which has been filed with the commission that the Orient operates 737 miles of railroad in the United States, extending from Wichita, Kansas, to Alpine, Texas. It has no large terminals along that route and the country is sparsely settled, devoted largely to stock raising and agriculture. It received a loan of $2,500,000 soon after the passage of the Esch-Cummins act but has never been able to regain the share of through business which it enjoyed before government ownership.

Traffic Manager Shaufler insists that the commission under the Esch-Cummins act has full power to authorize increased divisions in freight earnings to the weaker roads and that this will not reduce those of the stronger lines below the six per cent authorized return.

Work Begins in Government Departments One Hour Earlier Monday.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—Washington today began an experiment in voluntary daylight saving.

The hands of the clock remained unchanged, but under a request issued by President Harding, with approval of his cabinet, a large proportion of the activities of the executive branch of the government got under way an hour earlier and most of the commercial establishments of the city opened their doors and called their employes to work an hour ahead of the regular time

Congress, on the other hand, holding in its memory the storm stirred up in some quarters by its enactment of a daylight saving law several years ago, had refused to have anything to do with the new plan and will meet and adjourn as usual The supreme court has met at high noon by the clock since its history began and also will decline to follow the executive departments

All portions of executive departments were not united on the plan, two of the bureaus employing the largest number of workers—the bureau of printing and engraving and the government printing office—standing by the regular schedule which calls for the beginning of work at 8 o'clock. This hour is the same as which clerks of departments operating under the new plan will report to work and street car companies saw great difficulty in handling all workers at one time.

LONDON, May 14.—The Times prints a special article reviewing the first year's work of George Harvey as American ambassador at the court of St. James, paying tribute to his efforts to smooth away existing misunderstandings between England and America and recalling his many public speeches in which, says the article, "he bent his energies to dispel illusions even at the risk of hurting feelings and stating fundamental facts which could not be ignored and had to be reckoned with in dealing with the American people."

"Thanks to his untiring efforts," the article continues, "Anglo-American relations have steadily improved until at the present moment there is no question in dispute or argument between the two countries. Ambassador Harvey has acted throughout as the interpreter of President Harding, the success of whose policy he has been greatly instrumental in assuring."

AGENT OF ALLEGED BASEBALL LOTTERY IS HELD BY POLICE

W. S Elliott, giving his address as this city, was booked at the city hall Monday morning for "investigation" following his arrest by Detective Miller Sunday. The immediate cause of his arrest is charged to a baseball lottery which he is alleged to have been conducting and which is said to have reached extensive proportions.

Officials did not know Monday what charges would eventually be filed but stated that they had sufficient evidence on which to hold the man.

The system used by Elliott offers the attraction of winning $100 on a 50 cent investment, provided, of course, that the investor exercises a certain degree of astuteness in picking winning teams. All clubs in the Texas, American and National leagues are used in the lottery and the holder of a combination of teams scoring the greatest number of runs wins the pot

KIWANIANS OFFER AUTOS FOR SCOUTS; HEAR INDIA TALK

Some high lights of life in India as seen by himself while doing military service during the war were given to the Kiwanis club Monday noon by Captain R. S. Healey of this city. The speaker made some frank observations of social conditions, dwelling especially on the caste distinctions and also on the political status of England.

"England is alleged to rule India," he said, "but it is a case of 100,000 against 300,000,000."

Descriptions of ancient Indian architecture and some rather graphic tales of funeral ceremonies were also included in Captain Healey's remarks.

Edward Kadane, local high school senior, announced the coming high school senior class play at the Wichita theater Wednesday night and solicited the support of the Kiwanians. A number of tickets were sold after the meeting.

The club broke all speed records in responding to a request from Walter Curlee, representing the Boy Scout council, who asked that four Kiwanians volunteer the use of their cars in taking local scouts to the scout camp at Cache, Okla., early next month Four men promptly obligated themselves to furnish cars and Dr. F. L. Collard volunteered to put in two days at camp as medical overseer.

AVIATOR IS KILLED IN PARACHUTE LEAP AT VERNON SUNDAY

PART OF HARNESS BREAKS AND BODY CRASHES TO THE EARTH.

PARACHUTE USED IS BORROWED FOR EVENT

The Victim, Ed Lirette, One Of the Foremost Performers of Mid-Air Stunts.

VERNON, TEXAS, May 15.—"Daredevil" Ed Lirette of Dallas, one of the foremost performers of midair thriller stunts, met death here Sunday afternoon when a piece of the harness of the parachute with which he was making a 2,000-foot drop, broke, causing him to fall to the ground.

Fate's irony was manifest in the tragedy, in that it was in one of the simplest and least dangerous of his many feats that Lirette died. The parachute drop, spectacular though it is, has never been looked upon as a very dangerous stunt. Lirette performed other feats that far exceeded it in risk and exertion, and came through them all safely

His own parachute harness had been missent and was not available for his feat at Vernon; consequently he borrowed the gear of a lighter man, and it proved unequal to the strain which his heavy body placed upon it as the big envelope hurtled downward from the plane. A strap snapped as the rush of air halted the parachute; the flyer failed, in a desperate attempt, to seize a handhold on something, then plunged downward.

The body, badly crushed, was found in a small creek near the scene of the exhibition.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at Dallas. The body was forwarded to Dallas Monday afternoon, accompanied by M. M. Merrill, Lirette's pilot and companion, who was first to reach the body after it fell.

BYERS PRECINCT ROAD BOND ISSUE CARRIES SATURDAY

REPORT IT HAD FAILED WAS DUE TO ERROR IN TABULATION.

WILL CONNECT WITH THIS COUNTY'S ROADS

Fund of $106,000 Provided For System of Gravel Surfaced Highways.

The $106,000 precinct road bond issue in the northwestern part of Clay county carried by the required two-thirds majority in Saturday's election, the vote being 264 for, 120 against.

An error in tabulating the returns Saturday night made it appear that the bonds had fallen four votes short of the necessary two-thirds majority; the error was discovered Sunday, and the correct figures give a two-thirds majority with 34 votes to spare

The success of this bond issue means that a system of gravel roads will be built in the Byers vicinity, tying into the Wichita county road to Thornberry and Charlie, and giving Wichita Falls direct connection with the prosperous Red river country This is the first road bond proposal to carry in Clay county

CALVE WILL TUTOR GIRL WITH MOST WONDERFUL CHILD VOICE

MISS KATHLEEN K[illegible]ING

By NEA Service.

WICHITA, KAN May 15.—"Most wonderful child voice I have ever heard!"

Mme Emma Calve, noted singer of the title role in "Carmen," said it

And the praise was prompted by one little song sung by 13-year-old Kathleen Kersting, a high school girl of Wichita

As a result Kathleen and her mother are to accompany Mme Calve to her castle, La Cabrieres, in southern France Then the noted singer will see to the proper voice education of her little find"

Miss Kersting first attracted more than local attention when Edoardo Sacerdote, noted voice specialist of Chicago, called the girl a "wonder child after hearing her sing at the Kansas music teachers' convention

Then Mme Calve gave a concert in Wichita Music critics induced her to visit the Kersting home

Kathleen sang "Rose in the Bud" That was enough! The trip to France was immediately planned

And what does the little singer think about it?

"Just think what a wonderful teacher I'll have" says she. "And naturally I'm tickled with the idea

"I will pursue my regular course of studies in addition to my vocal lessons A person doesn't get very far nowadays without an education"

Mme Calve paid high tribute to Mrs. Martin Flanagan, Kathleen's singing teacher "There is not a single thing to be undone," said she.

GUINN WILLIAMS CARRIES BAYLOR BY PLURALITY OF 28

SEYMOUR, TEXAS May 15.—A complete tabulation of the vote of Baylor county in the congressional race for the unexpired term of Lucian W Parish held Saturday follows

S A L. Morgan 287
Guinn Williams 315
Orville Bullington 36
Miss Annie Webb Blanton 78
Moore 4.

A total of only 722 votes were polled at the 16 voting boxes of the county, 416 of these being polled in the Seymour box Less than a third of the qualified voters cast their ballots last Saturday One substantial reason for the light vote throughout the country boxes was due to the fact that the farmers were busy attending to crop planting, which had been delayed by previously continued rainfall, only 306 votes being cast in 15 country boxes which had a potential voting strength of nearly 2 000.

HARD BOILED GIRL CHALLENGES COPS TO FIGHT IN COURT

The cost of contradicting official testimony and getting hard-boiled in police court went up Monday morning

Witness the plight of a young married woman who resented with such vehemence the statements of Officers Shook and Johnson that she was guilty of a vagrancy charge that Judge Chauncey found it necessary to impose a $25 contempt of court fine on the $15 vag fine already assessed The defendant was arrested at midnight Saturday and after spending Sunday in jail was in no amiable frame of mind when arraigned before the court

After her stormy session with the law she struck an a la Dempsey pose and offered pugilistic resistance to being taken back to her cell. The resistance was short lived, however and throughout the morning her sobs echoed dismally in the upper corridors of the city hall

Monday morning's court docket was probably the heaviest yet since Judge Chauncey and Attorney Gipson took up the prosecutions. Furthermore the fines collected totalled more in the aggregate. A man arrested Saturday night for being drunk and disturbing the peace found that such a spree was worth about $50, while the usual traffic violators shelled out $5 $10 and $15 with monotonous regularity when their cases were called.

Incidentally the court entered a $5 fine against one of the local congressional candidates in Saturday's elections who was picked up for having left the motor of his car running overtime on a downtown street

A jury trial, demanded by a man arrested for cutting corners, was set for 1 00 o clock Monday afternoon.

URGES WOMEN TO FIGHT FOR LEAGUE OF NATIONS

CHICAGO, May 15.—Viscount and Lady Astor arrived in Chicago yesterday for a two day visit, the latter as the guest of the Illinois League of Women Voters

"There's no powder on my nose," Lady Astor explained at the station as she waited for photographers to make pictures "I guess it doesn't make much difference for my features don't fit, I am told They are all right individually, but they are not assembled well as Auckland Geddes once told me"

She urged women to fight for the league of nations and asserted that it was no longer a question of getting women into politics "They are already in," she said "It's often a question of keeping them out the wrong kind"

She characterized the modern American newspaper as "one of the greatest signs of progress in the United States during the last eight years."

SHORTENING FOR SHORTCAKE

This year's bountiful strawberry crop has made one of the most delightful of all desserts possible for all.

In making strawberry shortcake, though, I must urge the use of Mrs. Tucker's Shortening. Its purely vegetable content makes the kind of crisp, flaky pastry that is one of the cardinal delights of this luscious dish.

Use Mrs. Tucker's Shortening for all your pastry and you'll never worry about results.

"The best greetings that we can offer customers of this store is contained in the statement that you may buy with confidence. Prices have stabilized themselves at from one-fourth to one-half less than they were when the drop started. You can practically buy everything today at 25c to 60c less on the dollar and many items are actually priced today at pre-war figures or less. Prices, where they have dropped unreasonably low, will start reaction upward almost as suddenly as they went down. The prosperity of the country demands a fair return on production, and we cannot expect to continue selling below cost of manufacturing very long without seriously affecting business as a whole and in turn injure the individual. We rejoice with the pubilc over the decline in prices. This firm has not hesitated to accept losses in order to assist in accomplishing the necessary adjustment and we recognize in the response to our efforts a complete confidence and respect for the policy which has won for P. B. M. its present position of leadership in Wichita Falls."

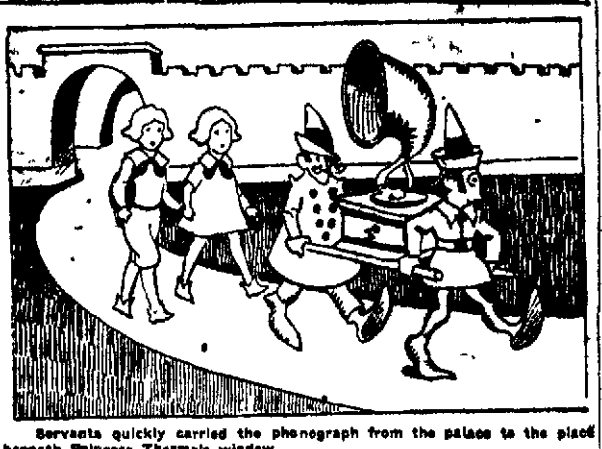
ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

THE MAGIC RECORD

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON.



Servants quickly carried the phonograph from the palace to the place beneath Princess Therma's window.

Servants quickly carried the phonograph from the palace to the place beneath Princess Therma's window where the kings were waiting

Nick and Nancy brought the magic record with the words of Longhead the Wiseman

And King Verdo produced the magic needle which had been the third peg of the heel of his left boot

'Silence!" cried the furious falcon from the tree-top. 'We shall now hear the words for which we have waited so long"

The machine was wound and the needle put in place Everybody held his breath There was a faint hussing Then came the voice of wise old Longhead Both kings are imposters Neither shall marry the Princess Therma The true kings are bewitched Let the false kings try their skill at shooting and my words will be proven true Only true kings can shoot straight"

'It's a lie!" shouted King Indig "Bring me my bow'

'It's false' roared King Verdo 'Bring me my arrows"

"What shall be the target" cried everyone

'The dove at your window," cried King Indig

'Agreed!' said King Verdo

Oh no, no no!" cried Nancy in alarm 'Please don't"

Yes" cried out the falcon "Let the dove be the mark '

So it was settled

King Indig shot first but his arrow was so crooked it whizzed around in circles and disappeared in the sky

Oh ' moaned the Diddyevvers

King Verdo shot next, but his bow was so crooked that his arrow went straight into the ground

"Oh" moaned the Korsknotts in sorrow for their king

'And now,' cried out the furious falcon, turn the other side of the record and learn the truth, good people You shall know all, for Longhead has yet more to say"

OUR FIRST YEAR

CHAPTER XXXVIII—PLANTING AN ACORN

By a Bride

"Haven't I another shirt?" Jack called from the small dressing room back of the in-a-dor bed

'Yes, dear!' I answered absent-mindedly

It was a morning when Jack had "a prospect" at our end of town therefore he could afford to be a little late in leaving home

"Where is my other shirt?"

'In the third drawer, dearest" I answered briefly because I was meditating about what to do with one of the letters the janitor had slipped under the door of the living room It was from dear old Mr Tearle, I knew from the writing It must be about our scheme to let Bonny elope if she wanted to but to get her to elope with the man of her father's choice

And what or how much of that secret had I a right to tell Jack? If Bart eventually were to marry Bonny would it be nice for any man to know that Bart had been framed? For what is match making, if not that"

There isn't any shirt in that drawer, l'eggins' came my husband's patient voice

'Oh yes! There must be! Try again"

I came out of my meditation, suddenly appalled by the knowledge that if Jack had no clean shirt to put on it was all my fault'

I had not been at home when the laundry man rang. I hadn't been at home for two weeks in succession, or was it three" It was—it was! No wonder Jack was short of shirts and collars!

He must have noticed his dwindling stock and said to himself that he would get along somehow' I had managed very badly, and Jack had not complained

And now he was reduced to his last shirt! And the huge bundle of soiled linen had not even been sent out of the house!

Many a bride has committed this identical crime, none perhaps ever paid for it with more remorse than I Dear old misused hubby! His mother had never neglected him that way I knew But Jack was not a husband to hurl his mother's biscuits at his wife

I wanted to explain about the laundry, to tell Jack how terribly sorry I felt when this unfortunate speech floated from the dressing room

'This settles it! I'll be late keeping my appointment '

I knew perfectly well that Jack was kidding me, teasing a little it was his way of saving my feelings of making me laugh when I felt like crying, but the situation didn't appeal to me as one bit funny His trifling speech was the last straw a mere straw, but big enough to make me decide what to do with Mr Tearle's letter

I thrust it inside my blouse then hurried to my husband, saying

"Oh, Jack! Please keep still! Until I find your shirt!"

I found it, not where I had said it was but where I had put it myself in my work basket! I had taken pains to put it there so I'd remember to turn the cuffs which were fringed where they fold.

THE RAINBOW'S JEALOUS

Ratine, one of the most popular materials for summer, is shown in more colors than a rainbow ever dreamed of—but nature is so limited!

Serpent green and periwinkle blue are the colors of the moment, but one needn't cramp one's style by refusing all others.

Deep rose, lemon yellow new blue, torchlight red are only a few of them. Ratine is shown not only in plain colors but in gingham checks, stripes and temperamental plaids The styles in which it may be used are almost endless.

You may have gathered by now what we started out to say—that your season won't be complete without at least one ratine frock. Unless it's a brilliant color you won't be able to look your mirror in the face

MORGAN WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE IN JULY'S PRIMARIES

Hon S A L Morgan will not be a candidate for the congressional nomination in the democratic primary in July.

When he entered the race for the unexpired term of the late Lucian W Parrish he did so with the expectation of being a candidate for the nomination for the regular term if he won and of not being it he lost He told friends Monday morning that there had been nothing to change this decision and that he would not be a candidate.

W. S Moore, who had withdrawn from the race for the unexpired term, announced in his withdrawal that he would be a candidate for the nomination in the democratic primary.

Although Miss Annie Webb Blanton had said that she would be a candidate for the nomination, some of her friends here are inclined to believe that she will not make the race. If she is not a candidate it will leave only Mr. Moore to oppose Mr Williams for the nomination Mr. Williams has already announced his candidacy for the nomination

Mr Williams is expected to go to Washington shortly and to take the oath of office as soon as he receives his certificate of election.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

My God shall supply all your need, according to His riches and glory.—Philippians 4:19.

The central thought of religion is of a peace that is beyond the unrest of life, of a harmony that transcends all its discords, of a unity of purpose which works through all the conflict of the forces of nature, and the still more intense conflict of the wills of men.—Edward Caird.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS FROM NOW.

W. L. George, a British author, in an interview in the New York Herald, tells what he believes the world will be like in another hundred years. The picture he gives isn't a very pleasing or satisfactory one but it must be admitted that the tendency is in the direction of the developments pictured by Mr. George. Here is a part of his picture:

"The family would still exist, even though it is not doing very well today. It is inconceivable that some sort of feeling between parents and children should not persist, though I am of course unable to tell what that feeling will be. I imagine that the link will be thinner than it is today, because the child is likely to be taken over by the state, not only schooled but fed and clad, and at the end of its trained placed in a post suitable to its abilities.

"This may be effected by birth control, which in 2022 will be legal all over the world. There will be stages: the first results of birth control will be to reduce the birth rate; then the state will step in, as it does in France, and make it worth people's while to have more children; then the state will discover that it has made things too easy and that people are having children recklessly; finally some sort of balance will establish itself between the state demand for children and the national supply.

"Largely the condition of the family will be governed by the position of woman, because woman is the family, while man is merely its supporter. It is practically certain that in 2022 nearly all women will have discarded the idea that they are primarily 'makers of men.' Most fit women will then be following an individual career. All positions will be open to them and a great many women will have risen high. The year 2022 will probably see a large number of women in congress, a great many on judicial bench, many in civil service posts and perhaps some in the president's cabinet.

"But it is unlikely that women will have achieved equality with men. Cautious feminists such as myself realize that things go slowly and that a brief hundred years will not wipe out the effects on women of 30,000 years of slavery. Women will work, partly because they want to and partly because they will be able to. Thus women will pay their share in the upkeep of home and family. The above suggestion of community buildings, where all the household work will be done by professionals, will liberate the average wife and enable her out of her wages to pay her share of the household work which she dislikes.

"Marriage will still exist much as it is today, for mankind has an inveterate taste for the institution, but divorce will probably be as easy everywhere as it is in Nevada. In view, however, of the improved position of woman and her earning power, she will not only cease to be entitled to alimony, but she will be expected, after the divorce, to pay her share of the maintenance of her children."

ARE YOU CLEVER?

Bloodhounds are transported across Texas by airplane, to trail criminals wanted at Mexia, oil-boom town.

This is news, because it never happened before.

Later on, when airplanes will be as common as autos, shipping bloodhounds by flying express will be part of every day's business. Then no one will want to read about it.

People are most interested in the unusual. The craving to see something new is more gnawing than curiosity about the baffling riddle, human beings themselves.

To attain success, do the old stuff in a new way. That gets attention. Having attention, it is an easy matter to get the crowds to pay admission to your tent.

Christian K. Nelson, son of an Iowa village confectioner, had 19 cents and an idea. The idea was the Eskimo pie, now earning him royalties of around $1,000,000 a year.

The Eskimo pie is merely a combination of two old things—ice cream and a chocolate coating.

Selling them separately, Nelson might have lived and died in his father's candy store without getting rich.

But he had imagination, also shrewdness enough to know that the public would buy the "old stuff" if dished out to them in a new way.

Barnum, master showman, advertised "a horse with its head where the tail ought to be."

All that was inside the little sideshow tent was an old nag, hitched with its tail in the manger.

But more people in one season bit on this appeal to their craving for the unusual, and paid over their hard cash to gratify their craving, than would pay to see a normal horse in several million years.

Every one of the humdrum, boresome things of life could be presented in a new and attractive way, with as much success as Nelson's combination of ice cream and chocolate coating.

Stir up your imagination and apply it to your job. Find the new way to make your work attract the appreciate attention of your employer. If in the sales end, all you need is a "new sales kink."

Observe that the new way usually is a better way—applying simplicity, convenience and efficiency to the old method.

THE CONGRESSIONAL ELECTION.

State Senator Guinn Williams has been elected to fill the unexpired term of the late Lucian W. Parrish in congress by what is probably a majority of the votes polled in the election. Mr. Williams' large vote is a tribute to his fine and genial personality more than an endorsement of his views on the issues in the campaign.

Wise county, probably more than any other west of Tarrant, has sent her sons westward into many Northwest Texas counties and particularly into the counties in the western part of the Thirteenth congressional district. It bespeaks Mr. Williams' good citizenship and is a tribute to him that almost without exception these former Wise county residents worked diligently for his success in the recent campaign.

Hon. S. A. L. Morgan of Wichita Falls made a splendid campaign and impressed many as being the ablest man in the race. His speeches showed breadth of view, conviction, courage and were expressed with a vigor and clarity that could not be matched by others in the race.

Orville Bullington, Wichita Falls independent candidate, received the votes of many friends in Wichita Falls and in Wichita county who could not fully endorse his views. There were many others of his friends who regretted that his political position would not permit them to pay him a personal tribute by giving him their vote.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE CALICO WOMEN.

I have an idea that if Nancy Hanks, the mother of Lincoln, were alive and should come into the ordinary store, she wouldn't get the best of attention.

The uncouth appearance and perhaps bent figure might cause some clerks to smile and to render only a passing service, as contrasted with the service rendered some fashionable and showy woman.

For what clerk could guess that here was the mother of the greatest figure of modern times? But how much it would mean to wait upon such a one.

There is something very beautifully noble about the consideration shown to the bent, frail, calico women of the world.

What a plain, simple woman Madame Curie is. Such a fine, wonderful face. Yet no one would suspect here to be one of the greatest scientists in the world just to meet her on the street.

The mothers of great men—of the scientists, discoverers, merchants, statesmen—are, as a class, plain and simple folk with wonderful souls.

If you are a clerk in a store, bear this in mind. You may be rendering service to one of the greatest of the earth. Treat the unpretentious ones with consideration, graciousness and kindness.

I often encounter—after the business day is over—the woman who cleans my offices and scrubs the floors. She is a very wonderful woman to me. She has five children and I have never heard her complain and I have never met her but what her face has been wreathed in smiles. Perhaps one of her little ones shall rise to leadership in the world some day and put to shame those who once hired her for so menial labor at such small pay.

The calico woman! I never see the type but what I think of my own mother—who dressed so plainly, but whose heart was gold of the finest clear thought, her soul always conscious of the needs of other people.

How very wonderful is consideration and kindness, anyway—to whomever it is rendered.

JUST FOLKS

OUR CHILD AND THE NEIGHBOR'S CAT.

They are taking care of their neighbor's cat
And making a very good job of that,
For the next-door lady was called away
So what could they do and what could they say
When she asked in her absence if they would see
That her cat was fed as she ought to be?

Now the cat is a puss that is highly bred
And on dainty foods must be daily fed;
She's a costly thing, as you may infer,
And the common cats mustn't play with her,
And not for the world would they dare to let
Disaster come to their neighbor's pet.

They fret at night and they fret by day
For fear that Miss Tabby may run away;
The very last thing that they do at night
Is to see that the neighbor's cat's all right.
They never could rest if their charge should roam
And perhaps be lost when their friend comes home.

God loaned them a child, but He didn't say:
"Look after my baby while I'm away."
So they seldom worry and seldom fret
For he isn't ranked as a neighbor's pet,
And never they trouble to count the cost,
Or what God will say if His child be lost.

He's one of God's children, but what of that,
He's not the same as a neighbor's cat.
For soon will the neighbor be home to find
If they've been true to their trust and kind.
And they fear her wrath, but it strikes me odd
They're never afraid of the wrath of God.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK

By LEE PAPE

I went erround to the store with ma today to carry some of the things, going more because I had to than because I thawt it would give me eny plesaure, and on the way home we started to go past the froot stand and there was a lot of grate big orindges piled up, me saying, G look at the orindges, if they was mutch bigger and not so red you mite think they was candelopes.

Wich ma stopped and looked at them, saying to the man, How mutch are naval orindges?

3 cents apeece, sed the man.

Being a skinnie man with a fat mushtash, and ma sed, Well I wunt 3, how mutch would they be sippose I took 3?

Well all rite, sed ma. And we went in and each had a ice cream soda wich maybe we wouldent of if it hadent of bin for the 3 orindges.

OLD-FASHIONED DOSING

By DR. R. H. BISHOP

The old-fashioned mother who doses her child with bitter medicines for what she calls "worms," probably doesn't know that her patient can get real worms only by getting into the mouth and stomach particles of earth or dirt containing the tiny eggs of thread worms. If no such opportunity has been given the little one is being treated for the wrong complaint.

In fact, few of the children whose mothers give them "worm medicine" have such an ailment.

There are no symptoms of "worms." A coated tongue, white lines about the mouth, restlessness, heavy breath, picking at the nose, bright eyes, feverishness, nightmares and numerous other disturbances noted in children are not symptoms of worms. They are rather signs of acute intestinal indigestion, and a teaspoonful of soda in a little water will bring relief quicker than all the old-fashioned worm medicines.

The prevention of worms has nothing to do with the regulation of foods given the child. The only true prevention of worms is personal cleanliness.

VAUDEVILLE ACTOR DIES FROM INJURIES SUSTAINED

ST. LOUIS, May 15.—Albert McGinnis, vaudeville actor of New York, appearing at a local theatre, died at a hospital here yesterday of injuries received during a quarrel with a chauffeur over a taxicab fare. Frank McGinnis a brother, and William Green, another actor, were arrested, but were released on bond.

YOU AND I

IMPORTANT.

Today's most important news is that the railroads are moving as many cars of freight as during the great business boom of 1919.

It is a remarkable showing, for the coal strike has reduced freight movement 110,000 cars a week.

If coal shipments were uninterrupted now, as they were in 1919, freight traffic would be more than a seventh bigger than during the boom.

It is important news, mighty encouraging, for freight loadings show how much is being produced, how much sold.

Prosperity is returning in the humble box car.

MURDER.

Lillian White disappeared at Nyack, N. Y. Two boys, picking wild flowers, found a skeleton, its skull battered in.

Scientific detectives reconstructed the victim's head by shaping plaster over the skull, mathematically restoring the face as it looked in life with muscles and skin over the bones.

Relatives viewed the work, instantly identified it. Blue glass eyes and a wig of the victim's hair, found near the skeleton, made it lifelike.

Sherlock Holmes, Lecoq or Doctor Bentiron never did anything as wonderful.

By a similar method, scientists take a fossil fragment of a jawbone and reconstruct it to show what primitive man looked like—500,000 years ago, according to science, 5,000 years, according to W. J. Bryan.

BEAUTY.

Next time you are near a big museum, especially the American Museum of Natural History in New York, be sure to see the reconstructed skulls of primitive men.

Instantly it will strike you that modern man, compared with his ancestors, is like beauty alongside the beast.

Man is losing his ferocious head as he loses his ferocious disposition. Progress is certain, if slow, and the primeval skull proves it.

BRAINS.

The cave man had jaws like a gorilla, for cracking bones and masticating tough raw meat. His brains were in his stomach.

He had almost no forehead. It grew higher as man began to think.

On the other side, many a big skull has nothing in it. These are exceptions. Place your bets on the big skulls. Cuvier, great French naturalist, who died 90 years ago, had a brain weighing 64 ounces, against present-day American average of 50.

WOODSHED.

Mrs. Mildred Brandt, newly elected police magistrate, announces she will hold court in her parlor at home "to take less time from my domestic duties." This is at Winslow, Ill.

While a parlor may not look as impressive as a dusty court room it is in the home, the original and greatest agency of law and order. For the most part court rooms exist to rectify and punish mistakes of early home training.

Many a man looks back to a youthful session in the woodshed, with father's shingle, as his shifting into the path of righteousness. Best when taken in moderate doses.

GAMBLING.

A seat on the New York stock exchange sells for $95,000. This is within $15,000 of the highest price paid for the right to do business on the exchange during the great speculative movement of 1920. It is $40,000 more than the record of 1914, a bad business year.

Wall street farmers apparently are betting on a big crop of speculators.

They are safe in making the bet, now that prosperity is returning and everyone is due to have more money, which burns a hole in nearly every pocket.

THEFT.

A young fellow held up a New Yorker and found nothing of value on his victim except half a package of cigarettes. He took the cigarettes.

Now he is in jail facing a maximum punishment of 50 years' imprisonment.

Theft is theft, regardless of amount stolen, though sentimentally it's usually measure theft by amount of plunder.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY.

Today's word is negligible.

It's pronounced—negli-ja-b-l, with accent on the first syllable.

It means—that which may be neglected or disregarded; not important enough to be worth consideration.

It comes from—Latin "neglegere," to disregard, to neglect.

It's used like this—"Democrats in congress seem to think that the saving the government is likely to accomplish by means of the budget system will be negligible."

OUT OUR WAY

By WILLIAMS

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Citizens vs. Mangy Hounds.

Editor The Times

We called on the city council Monday night, presented our case, namely, citizens vs mangy hounds. To date the hounds have the best of it.

We asked the council to enforce the dog tax also dog muzzling ordinance.

Police Commissioner Fitts states five dogs take the place of each one captured. Quite a local industry.

And as we plead in vain for less dog we feel that Colonel Kirby's oration on protection of home industry has had some effect in Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Brown, residing at Third and Bluff in company with my wife was attacked Tuesday night by a bull dog on Seventh street near the Salvation Army hall, and beat him off with an umbrella.

The dog was unmuzzled. The owner shouted "Why don't you wait until the dog bites you before you strike him?" Isn't that just like the owner of a dog?

We want to know why we can't have the dog ordinances enforced? We want to know how we can continue to live in Wichita Falls much longer if as Mr. Fitts admits 40 captured in one week and five new ones to each one captured means an increase of 160 per week with 10,000 to start with. How am I to be a contented citizen when the police commissioner admits he can not control the mangy curs?

And my wife subjected to insult on the streets of our city because she objects to being bitten by some ambitious dog. She wanted to complain to Mr. Fitts. I told her it was useless.

We stand for protection of home industry and wait till you are bitten.

E. H. BREAUX.

CRUELTY.

A law to curb trained animal acts and possibly prohibit them entirely, is being framed by the British parliament.

The idea back of the movement is a good one—that trained animal acts are based on cruelty and usually are without educational value.

As old circus men put it: "All that's necessary to train a wild animal is kindness and a red hot iron."

Killing animals for sport, or training them for exhibition at a profit is a survival of savagery.

If England passes the proposed law, she should hand a copy of it to the young Prince of Wales who recently butchered tigers and elephants in India. It may be sensible to kill man-eating tigers, but that was not his motive.

Whales keep warm by the thick layer of fat beneath the skin.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician of 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

Spudders Are Unable To Solve Jacobus and Are Whitewashed 3 To 0

By PAUL W. LARKIN.

The Spudders were ignominiously nked Sunday afternoon at Athlo park by the onrushing Beaumt Exporters by the count of 3 0. The threatening weather and wer just before game time kept attendance down, and it was t as well as the fans who did ve the clouds didn't seem to oy themselves to the utmost, ging from their mutterings as y wended their way back to town er the last man had been retired. art Jacobus, the spitballer who always managed to oppose the dders at least once ever since Exporters have been coming to chita Falls, was on the mound the invaders and he had everyng that could be desired. He lted the locals to four one base , had perfect control over his st ball and crossed the batsmen time; after time with his fast . Incidentally, he cracked out a ble which sent the first Beaumt tally across the plate. As the tters turned out, this counter ved sufficient to win the game. loyd Wheeler made his debut in box; for Walter Salm and his formance was most satisfactory. big fellow had a wide assortmt of "stuff" and twirled wing ball until the eighth when he nicked for a brace of singles a triple. He had little to work however, as his companions came to his aid on the offense. The morale of the team was tered when at least one run, maybe more, was thrown away the last of the seventh and it a listless draw that took the d in the eighth chapter. Wheeler ve room for a pinch hitter in the th and the last session was led by Abe Bowman.

Costly "Skulls."

he Spudders have been contribng "skulls" daily for the past k or two and they have proved eadingly costly. Two were ned in Sunday, one of which reted in the loss of a run. But redless of the boners, it is doubtif the Scrimites could have gotto Jacobus for enough runs to . The Beaumont ace was at best throughout.

he contest started out with all earmarks of a real pitchers' tle. For four innings the only on either club to reach second a was "Shorty" Adams. Adams hit by a pitched ball in the ninth canto and went to second White's sacrifice, but he never beyond that station.

he visitors broke the ice in the h, however. Anderson started whiffing. But Alcock and Jabus came through with slashing bles, the former counting on the er's blow. Jacobus was left nded at second when Rader nded out and Stansbury fouled Kitchens.

he Spudders got another man in nd in the sixth on Alcock's bob and an infield out, but Summa's for a blow was snared by Wetin center, and no damage rend.

Lost Opportunity.

hatever chance the Spudders have to win was lost in the sav. McDonald opened with a sinto right. Miller bounced a hit second to short center. While el and Rader were chasing the McDonald easily romped to Bescher was coaching at station and when Tex arrived must have been thinking of wish's feat on the previous day. any rate, Norvich is about the animal, rational or irrational, ch could have reached the ting station safely. Bob told to keep going and the latter red. He kept going until he about a foot from home plate n he struck a brick wall in the on of Anderson who had him out with the ball in his hand. nt to second shortly afteran steal and scooted to when Anderson heaved to centfield. Neither Beck nor O'Brien able to push him around, howe.

Rader and bury started the ball rolling singles and advanced on Dew pretty sacrifice Wetzel the sphere past Summa for bags and both runners tallied. next play Edington hit to , who threw to the plate Wetzel. The latter found in a jam for a few brief but got back to third in when he ran past McDonald dams failed to cover third on went to second during ramble. Strong was hit by a pitch ball, but Wheeler decided nough was enough and he Anderson to pop to Adams cock to foul out to Beck.

WINNING WOMEN'S OLYMPIC HURDLE

SPORT SHOTS by Paul W. Larkin

Brace Up!

The Spudders lost a full game on both leaders. That'll never do.

The Reason.

Pitching hasn't been responsible for many of the recent losses. Failure to think and play real baseball has been.

Wheeler's Impression Favorable.

Floyd Wheeler should win plenty of ball games for the locals. He looked like a million dollars Sunday. He has a motion very similar to Hollingsworth's. You can't win without runs.

Beaumont.

Many fans were disagreeably surprised by the Beaumont club. It looks as good as any club that has been here this season, and better than two or three. All clubs look good when they're winning, but it takes a winning club to look good when it's losing. The Spudders didn't look like a good club in the opening Exporter tilt.

Torkelson Real Comedian.

"Red" Torkelson, Beaumont hurler and clown, served to keep the crowd in a good humor while the locals were losing. There was lots of encouragement offered by the fans until the eighth when they shut up like clams. Torkelson wanted to know then if they were witnessing a ball game or a funeral.

Small Consolation.

The Exporter ace is out of the way, but the invaders still have a southpaw, Kraft and Morgan.

In September.

As Jake Miller stated during a fanning bee on the bench, "wait until September and you'll find out who the real hitters are." The same applies to the clubs. You can't wait until September to start, however.

Umpires Getting Bumps.

The umpires are having a tough life here. Hunter Hill stopped a foul tip with his shin Saturday and now has a gimp in his get-away while Daly was hit in the shoulder and has a game wing. It's a good thing it was his left whip and not his right. He uses the right to good advantage when callin' 'em. He made a hit with the fans on his first appearance here.

Exporters and Rain.

As usual, the Exporters brought rain with them. That has been a peculiar habit of theirs ever since Wichita Falls had a franchise. When you look for Beaumont, look for rain.

Can't Get Over.

The locals are still trying to win a Sunday game.

Shreveport Down.

The downtrodden Gassers aren't making a dime at home, and it would not be a bit surprising if the franchise were sold in the near future. It is rumored that Ham Patterson is in the market for it.

Three Draws in Dallas.

They've been having plenty of excitement in Dallas recently. Three scraps in two days have been carded at the ball park. Walter Morris vs Jess Hassell, Walter Morris vs the former groundkeeper, and Lou Kraft vs Kal Segrist. No decisions were rendered.

Tigers Going At Last.

Have you noticed the way those Tigers have been creeping up? Looks as if Cobb is making his promises good. Saturday can't get here too soon for the Yanks. They're missing Ruth and Meusel more every day. Carl Mays' mediocre showing thus far this season has hurt, too.

Billy Evans says

By BILLY EVANS.

Take nothing for granted in baseball is an excellent theory to at all times follow.

Events in the baseball world during the past few weeks have certainly borne out the truth of that adage.

Within ten days' time some very remarkable feats have been performed in the major leagues. As is usually the case, the record-breaking performances came in bunches.

Of course the most notable feat was the pitching of a no run, no it, not a man reach first game by Charley Robertson of the Chicago White Sox.

I was one of the umpires in this game, and I regret very much that Robertson's honors were slightly dimmed by the accusation that he tampered with the ball.

Robertson's victory was clean cut. The fact that the recruit performed it against Detroit, one of the hardest-hitting clubs in the history of the game, made it all the more noteworthy.

Robertson used a fast ball with great success, mixing in a slow curve and a nice change of pace. His control was perfect. Only two batters who faced him worked the count to three balls.

Shortly after this game, Shriver, a recruit pitcer working for Brooklyn, scored a shutout in his first major league start, and allowed only two hits. That is a record few recruits make in their major league debut.

In that same game, Sam Post, a recruit first sacker, got his name into the baseball records. In this game Post had only one chance at first base, a put-out. This equaled the National League record made by Bill Minchman of Pittsburgh.

A few days later Jesse Barnes, the hero of the 1921 world series, shut out the Philadelphia club without a hit. Barnes came mighty close to equaling Robertson's record. Only one man reached first base. He got there on a base on balls, but was doubled up on the next play.

The same day that Barnes was mowing down the Phillies, Sam Jones of the New Yor Yankees was turning in a great game against Washington.

For seven innings Jones retired the Nationals in order. He was on the way to duplicate Robertson's feat. In the eighth inning, Joe Judge spoiled it with a triple, that was badly played. In the ninth inning another Washington player got on through an infield scratch.

All of which leads us up to the conclusion that the pitchers are once more coming into their own. In addition, there is also the very general belief that the ball in use this season is not nearly so lively as the 1921 brand.

The fans like hitting, but will probably welcome a pitchers' battle every now and then as a sport dessert.

WILLARD STILL UNDECIDED ABOUT RE-ENTERING RING

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—Whether Jess Willard, former world's heavyweight pugilistic champion, again will enter the boxing game is still a matter of conjecture, even with himself, the former champion informed a representative of the Los Angeles Express in an interview at his home here last night.

"I have not seriously considered going back into the pugilistic business," Willard declared. "At present I am kept pretty busy attending to my personal affairs and I have not had time to give the boxing game much thought."

WILLIAMS' GOAL IS FORTY HOME RUNS

Doesn't Expect to Beat Ruth's Record, But Does Doubt If Babe Can Catch Him.

By KEN WILLIAMS

Since I have broken into the home run spotlight a great many people have asked me what chance I believe I have to beat Babe Ruth's record of 59 home runs.

Frankly, I am not aiming to top Ruth's record. Of course I would be delighted to turn the trick, but honestly I am not shooting quite that high.

Ruth is getting a very late start. In all probability, after getting back into the game, it will be a couple of weeks before he hits his stride.

A Big Handicap.

That means that Ruth will be spotting me a start of about seven weeks. Great as Ruth is, I don't believe he can overcome the handicap which the suspension by Judge Landis has imposed.

It is my opinion that any player who can make 40 home runs in the American league this year will lead the organization in that department of play. I am positive that will be too great a number for Ruth to overcome.

I want to rank second to Ruth if I am able to top his mark. I feel that 40 home runs will give me such an honor. Ruth and Meusel are are two outstanding sluggers in the American league. They are really the only batters I have to fear. And with the big handicap imposed by Judge Landis they don't loom up dangerously.

Goal 40 Home Runs.

I don't believe any batsman in the history of modern baseball will equal the deeds of Ruth. Batters of his type happen about every 100 years.

My goal is to lead the American league in home runs in 1922.

In accomplishing that feat I hope to make at least 40 home runs which will rank me next to Ruth in the annals of swat.

HARRY PAGE RIDING GOLD PLATE

By BOB DORMAN
By NEA Service

NEW YORK, May 15.—Down the roads of Westchester resound to the drum of hoofs.

A horse, every inch of him a thoroughbred, flashes by. On his back is a slender, nattily-clad rider, a black patch over one eye, in the other a firmly-fixed monocle. He sits his mount as if he himself were a part of the animal.

Every dweller along the roads knows both man and horse.

For to Harry S. Page, sportsman and clubman, his daily ride is a rite. He is 68-odd years old and blind of one eye, injured in an accident suffered two years ago during a gallop over the same course, but every day finds him in the saddle on his favorite mount, Gold Lady, his 15 year-old hunter.

They are in training for next year's 2½ mile steeplechase of the United Hunts Racing Association. They won the event which opened this year's racing season, but that is past history. Next year is their goal just to show the youngsters what the oldsters can do.

For 40 years Page's interest has centered in sports and hunting. The decline of enthusiasm for amateur riding has been a tragedy to him. He wants to revive it. He keeps his health and figure by his daily gallops. No slothful ease on the padded cushions of a limousine for him.

TIGERS CLIMB OUT OF SECOND DIVISION

Hand Yanks Second Successive Defeat and Cut Their Lead to Half a Game.

NEW YORK, May 15.—Ty Cobb's rampaging Detroit Tigers have had enough of trailing the American league procession. They are in the first division today for the first time this season, as a result of taking their second straight game from the Yankees 8 to 2 and making it six victories out of their last eight games.

The "Georgia Peach" himself played a prominent part in the triumph, slamming out a double and triple off Mays. The defeat left the Yankees only a half game ahead of the St. Louis Browns, who were idle.

The Giants beat Grover Alexander in a ten inning battle with the Cubs 5-4, and as St. Louis was stopped by Lee Meadows and his hard hitting Phillies, 5-1, the McGraw men are enjoying a four game lead.

Andy High's homer enabled Brooklyn to win from Cincinnati, 6-5 and break its losing streak of six games. Cleveland's rallies in the eighth and ninth failed to overcome Washington's early lead and the Senators squeezed out a 4-3 victory.

PLAN POSTMORTEM EXAMINATION OF THE BODY OF MAN FOUND

RUSSELL ELDRED DIES AT HIS HOME IN OKMULGEE, OKLAHOMA.

DEAD THREE WEEKS IS OPINION OF PHYSICIANS

Was Supposed to Be in Pennsylvania With His Mother and Relatives.

OKMULGEE, OKLA., May 15.—A postmortem examination of the body of Russell Eldred, 27, which was found here yesterday by a caretaker in the family home, will be held this afternoon and will determine whether an inquest is necessary, local health authorities announced today.

In a statement this morning, Chief of Police Dick Farr expressed belief that Eldred had not met with violence. He said it was his opinion that Eldred was ill when he arrived from the east where he accompanied his mother to the home of relatives and that after taking refuge in their residence, his condition became gradually worse.

The room where the body was found was in disarray and confusion. Much of the furniture had been overturned and electric light fixtures shattered.

Chief of Police Farr said his theory is that Eldred became delirious and wandered about the house, knocking over furniture but unable to summon aid because of his condition. No weapons or blood stains were found anywhere in the house, Chief Farr pointed out.

The condition of the body indicated that Eldred died about three weeks ago, health officials said. It was stated yesterday that the decomposed state of the body probably prevent a finding as to the exact cause of his death.

Mrs. E. B. Eldred, mother of Russell and a wealthy owner of real estate here, closed the residence last fall and went with her son to the home of relatives in Pennsylvania. The boy was last heard of when he left his mother on March 2, according to friends here.

Mrs. Eldred is expected here soon. Her husband, who died several years ago, was a pioneer oil man in this district.

A KIDDIES' PARADISE! THAT'S WHAT THIS FLAT WILL BE

HARRY I. DALSEY.

By ROY GIBBONS.

CHICAGO, May 15.—Harry I. Dalsey had 12 reasons for building a $300,000 apartment house here which he designed especially for families having large numbers of children.

He was one of them, and his brothers and sisters constituting the remaining 11.

Dalsey today is a prosperous architect. But 25 years ago, when he was just a youngster, he remembers countless landlords refusing his own parents a place to rent merely because they had a large family.

Plans Revenge.

"Wait till I get big," Dalsey frequently remarked during those days, "I'll fix them."

His threat was intended for all landlords in general.

"And now I am going to have my revenge," he says.

The "kid castle" which he designed and is erecting for both "love and spite" will have special "perambulator garages," roof play gardens, rocking horses, permanent see-saws and other delights for his juvenile tenants.

And what is more, Dalsey stipulates in the lease that for every time Mr. Stork leaves one new baby there'll be a cash bonus of $25 and double that amount for twins.

The apartment house is going up in an exclusive section of the town from which children are usually barred.

More the Merrier.

"There'll be 33 flats in the place and I hope I draw couples with at least five children each," Dalsey says.

"The more the merrier. I just l ve kids. They make a place look human.

"I hope the neighbors holler. It'll do 'em good. I've waited 30 years to put this over and now's my chance."

Dalsey isn't married.

CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE BY WINDSTORM IN THE SAN ANGELO TERRITORY

SAN ANGELO, TEXAS, May 15.—Considerable damage was reported today as the result of a wind, hail and rain storm which passed this section last night. Eight or ten buildings were unroofed or blown from foundations at Miles City, 18 miles east of San Angelo. Fences were leveled and much window glass broken at Rowena.

The Klattenhoff school house, four miles from Miles, was demolished. Sterling City reported great damage to barns and wind mills. Beating down of cotton in many places will necessitate replanting, it was reported.

Three and a half inches of rain sent the North Concho river out of banks here. The Elk creek bridge was washed out at Ballinger.

Dr Evrett Jones returned Monday from El Paso where he attended last week the annual convention of the State Medical association. While at the meeting Dr. Jones was elected president of the alumni of the medical department of the State university. The 1923 convention will be held in Fort Worth, Dr. Jones deciding not to present the invitation from this city owing to possible lack of sufficient hotel accommodations.

LOCAL MEN BRING SOUTH EXTENSION OF ELECTRA FIELD

A mile southward extension of the Electra field was indicated Sunday when the well of Fitzgerald, Kollman, Bailey and others on the John and Jeff Waggoner ranch south of Electra was drilled in.

This well has 500 feet of fluid in the hole, and is expected to make a commercial producer, some estimates place it as high as 200 barrels. The sand was struck at about 1,500 feet. The well is a mile southeast of production on the Burnett tract.

Owners of the lease include Dr. E. B. Bailey, Dr. J. D. Proctor, B. Kollman, H. C. Fitzgerald, C. E. Bailey, J. D. Nantz, Dr. W. L. Rhodes and the Weaver and Johnson Drilling company. The latter company, which brought in the well, added another to a long list of successes in the Electra field without a dry hole yet.

The owners plan to start another test within the next 30 days.

SUES FOR $30,000 ALLEGING HE WAS FALSELY ARRESTED

Albert O'Hara instituted suit Monday against Robert H. Clark, proprietor of the Model Laundry in this city, asking damages in the sum of $30,000 for alleged false arrest. He asks for $15,000 actual and $15,000 exemplary damages.

The plaintiff contends that the defendant in causing his arrest attempted to collect a civil debt in the criminal court. He alleges that he was caused to be arrested in Greenville on a Thursday and brought to this city from his wife and children and his work and placed in jail, where he remained until Sunday.

The petition recites that the grand jury met and investigated his case but that no bill was returned.

BUCK GARRETT TO PROBE BALLEW CASE, REPORTS INDICATE

OKLAHOMA ADVICES SAY HE AND DETECTIVES NOW IN WICHITA FALLS.

LOCAL OFFICIALS DENY ANY KNOWLEDGE OF IT

Not Known Who Instigated Reported Inquiry—Case Awaiting Grand Jury.

Although reports from both Dallas and Oklahoma City Monday indicated that a bevy of detectives had been sent to Wichita Falls to investigate the recent killing of "Bud" Ballew by Police Chief McCormick, evidence of the arrival of special investigators in this city was lacking. There have been previous rumors of detectives being here in connection with the case.

The outside reports also indicated that Buck Garrett of Ardmore, under whom Ballew served as a deputy, was here in connection with the investigation.

The theories advanced by Garrett, in connection with the killing, are in conflict with statements made by Chief McCormick as to the manner in which Ballew was shot. No one could be found Monday who had seen the former Ardmore sheriff here.

Nothing could be learned Monday as to whether the supposed investigation was an official one, or had merely been undertaken at the instance of some of Ballew's friends.

Local official action on the case has been awaiting the convening of the grand jury for the June term of the 30th district court. It has been considered doubtful whether that body would indict the chief.

Asks Jury Trial On Cutting Corner Charge; Guilty, $5

J. C. McQuerry, former owner of the White City Dairy, was fined $5 by a jury of six men in city police court Monday afternoon after having been found guilty of cutting the corner at Denver and Ninth streets.

The defendant, who plead his own case, admitted having ignored the "dummy cop" at the intersection but contended that it was setting many feet from the center of the street at the time of his arrest and that he really turned past the point where the marker should have been.

He was arrested by Motorcycle Officer Melvin Johnson.

LARGER QUARTERS FOR PRISONERS AND POLICE TO BE BUILT

Workmen will start in the next few days remodeling portions of the city hall to provide more court room and additional jail space, Police Commissioner Fitts announced Monday. The need of enlarged quarters for the city court as well as the necessity of better jail facilities has been felt for some time and since the McCormick-Chauncey-Gipson regime has taken over police affairs it has become decidedly acute.

The office of City Tax Collector Anderson will be moved to the Morgan building, there to share space with the water department offices, and Chief McCormick will be given the room vacated by Mr. Anderson and his force. A partition separating the present chief's office from the court room will be torn away, giving many more square feet of space for court proceedings.

On the second floor the health department laboratory will be reduced in size and an extra cell for the detention of white female prisoners constructed. The cell used at present for women prisoners will be devoted entirely to holding negro women taken in custody.

NEGRO'S GIFT LEADS TO DISCOVERY OF MANY STOLEN SHOES

Shoes, silk hose and other small articles of wearing apparel representing a total valuation of between $400 and $500 were recovered by the police department early Monday afternoon after a negro woman had accidentally given a clue for which the officers had hunted for six weeks. A negro man is now held in the city jail pending investigation as to his complicity in the affair.

The shoes and hose were stolen from Haryr's Cut Price store in the basement of the Morgan building early in April, and although detectives searched thoroughly at the time, they could find no trace of the thieves. Monday morning a negro entered the store with a pair of shoes that she wished exchanged and the clerk waiting on her recognized the footgear as being part of the stock that had disappeared.

The woman was turned over to officers who secured from her statements to the effect that she had been given the shoes by a negro man with whom she had been going for some time. She had no knowledge, she said, that the shoes had been stolen.

Acting on her instructions, Detectives Miller and Belcher and Motorcycle Officer Daves hurried to a small negro shack on Jalonick street and arrested Eddie McGowan, alias Eddie Branch. The missing merchandise was found in the house.

The negro refused to talk after his arrest. The negress who unsuspectedly cleared up the whole case is thought to have had no knowledge or part in the theft, according to police. The shoes were given her by her admirer who said he had bought them.

When searched by the police the man arrested was found to have had over a score of keys of all sizes and descriptions in his pocket.

Police were still working on the case late Monday afternoon.

OUTLET QUESTION ABSOLUTELY UP TO COUNCIL MEMBERS

Unless the city council arranges for an outlet from the city to the Clay county road the concrete paving will stop at Holliday creek, the city limits, according to a decision made Monday by the county commissioners.

There are several proposed routes which can be taken out of the city which are desirable but the county does not propose to take the initiative in the manner and entered an order Monday that the paving of the road would not proceed any further than the city limits until the council had arranged for the course.

An order was also placed on the minutes ordering Waggoner brothers to remove all obstacles on the Beaver creek road. It was reported to the court that a gate had been installed and erected across the road.

O. W. Hines, undertaker, was awarded the contract for the burial of paupers in the county. His bid was $14.50 which does not include the expense of digging the grave. He stated in his bid that he would go any place in the county after the dead body and prepare it for burial and will furnish a coffin and an outside box.

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, May 15.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 24 to 31 points on reports of renewed showers in the southwest, higher Liverpool cables, favorable Manchester trade advices, steady foreign exchange rates, and reports of foreign trade buying. There was considerable profit taking and probably some local selling which held the advance in check at the start, but as soon as it was absorbed July sold up to 19.83 and October 19.87, or about 35 to 39 points net higher on the general list with new crop months making new high records. There were numerous wires reporting rain or showers in Texas, which led to reiterated predictions of low end May condition figures.

Bullish weather and spot advices continued to reach here from the south with the early afternoon market becoming even more active and excited. May sold up to 20.90 and October to 20.40, making net advances of 81 to 106 points on the general list. Business tapered off somewhat at those prices but the market held within 4 or 5 points of the best around 2 o'clock.

Buying on the unfavorable weather news was stimulated by the reports of a better trade demand and telegrams from the southwest reporting a very stiff basis and stating that everything offered had been taken for export. Trading here became a little less active later in the forenoon but prices showed continued strength with all months this side of January selling above the 20 cent level. May advanced to 20.53 and October to 20.10, or 55 to 69 points above last week's closing quotations. The official forecasts were for unsettled or cloudy weather with showers in most sections and some of the private map readers are predicting several days of unsettled weather.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, May 15.—Private reports of very heavy rains in Texas and Oklahoma combined with a better Liverpool than due, and sales of 20,000 bales on the spot there, put the price of cotton strongly higher on the opening today and in the first hour of the session the trading months gained 53 to 55 points. July traded up to 19.55 and December to 19.50.

Complaints of crop damage in the western belt resulting from excessive rains and reports from the spot demand indicating a wide demand both here and at interior points aroused general buying on which in the trading up to 11 o'clock prices were sent to levels 72 to 74 points higher than the finals of last week. July rose to 19.73.

Cotton closed steady at net advances of 87 to 88 points.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, May 15.—Wheat turned downward in price today, influenced largely by an appeal from Julius Barnes, formerly national wheat director, that the Chicago board of trade arrange for a settlement of May wheat contracts on a basis no higher than the current value of the grain in domestic and foreign markets. The appeal was generally construed as bearish and led to considerable selling. The opening varied from unchanged to 1½c lower, May 1.42 to 1.42¾ and July 1.24¾ to 1.25¼.

Announcement of a big decrease in the visible supply total led to more decided upturns in prices later. Besides crop reports from Kansas and Oklahoma were less optimistic. The close was unsettled, ¾c net lower to a like advance with May $1.42¾ to $1.43 and July $1.25¾ to $1.25½.

Corn opened steady, ¼c off to a like advance, July 64½c, sagged a little and then rallied.

In subsequent dealing the corn market showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure. The close was firm ⅛ to ¾c net higher, with July 64⅞@¼ to 64½c.

Oats started unchanged to ⅛c lower, July 39⅞c to 39¾c.

Higher quotations on hogs gave an upward slant to provisions.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 15.—In the stock market the week opened with conflicting movements among recent leaders, particularly steels. Lackawanna Steel reacted a large fraction, and Bethlehem, Republic and Midvale, also eased with several of the equipments. Baldwin Locomotive showed especial heaviness. On the other hand Sloss-Sheffield Steel added three points to its recent steady advance, and Hydraulic Steel and Wickwire-Spencer also strengthened. Transcontinental was the outstanding feature among oils, rising two points on a transaction involving 15,000 shares. Central Leather and American Hide and Leather were in demand with Industrial Alcohol and Kayser. Missouri Pacific preferred was the only prominent railway issue, gaining one point.

Special stocks influenced by favorable news and pool operations went higher after midday but there were a considerable number which lost ground steadily. Standard oils, coppers and public utilities were in demand but rubbers, motors, foreign oils and chemicals gave way. Standard Oil of New Jersey advanced 3¼, Associated Oil 2, Standard Oil of California 1¼ and Hydraulic Steel preferred 5 points. Reading relapsed 2 points from its high figure of the morning. The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 1,100,000 shares.

SCHOOL BUILDING PROGRAM WILL BE PUSHED BY BOARD

Sale of the $350,000 school bond issue, approved by the voters Saturday, will be undertaken by the school board without delay. A meeting of the board is scheduled for Monday evening, at which the necessary orders in connection with the bonds will be passed.

Several bond buyers have already been inquiring about the bonds, which bear five per cent interest, and trustees are hopeful of getting above par for the issue.

Other matters in connection with the building program will be taken up as rapidly as possible. With the site already purchased and an architect chosen, much of the preliminary work has been disposed of, and all of the new buildings will be in readiness for the session opening in September, 1923, if not sooner.

Members of the board are highly gratified at the tremendous majority given the bonds in the election Saturday. While the number of opposition votes was abnormal, the manner in which the supporters of the bond issue rallied to its support was all that could have been desired.

BIG CROWD HEARS GRADUATING SERMON AT BAPTIST CHURCH

The baccalaureate services for the high school graduating class, held this year in the First Baptist church with Rev J. W. Greene, pastor of the Central Presbyterian church, delivering the baccalaureate sermon ushered in the last week of school life for over 108 high school seniors Sunday morning. A crowd that packed the big Baptist auditorium to capacity filled the first floor and balcony long before the class processional.

Rev. Greene's sermon was given in the form of friendly admonition to the graduates, who were warmly congratulated by the pastor on their success in having completed a high school course. A plea that they continue with their education was made an important feature of the talk.

E. S. Goodner, member of the school board, Principal S. H. Rider of the high school and Superintendent of Schools Lee Clark also appeared on the morning's program while special music was furnished by the high school orchestra.

BEAUTIFUL SERMON ON PARENTHOOD BY DR. GRAFTON SUNDAY

By FRANK S REID

Dr Grafton preached a beautiful sermon Sunday, Mother's day, at the First Presbyterian church. He chose for his subject one characteristic of the day, "Mother and Father," selecting his text from second Timothy, first chapter, fifth verse "When I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and thy mother Eunice, and I am persuaded that in thee also" Dr Grafton said:

"There are three generations in my text: The grandmother, the mother and the son and down through these three generations there runs a golden influence like the golden thread that runs through the tapestry. Those generations of piety, of goodness, must have given to young Timothy a mighty push in the right direction, and evidently Paul, the writer of this letter, thinks so, for he compliments this young man for his faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

"There are mighty reservoirs of influence God has gathered them together and has stored them back of every generation and in response to prayers he lets down this tremendous power upon the children, the grandchildren and the great-grandchildren of those far off years

"I believe that some statistics are badly needed. The world is woefully in want of some statistics with regard to the immensity of the influence of one man or woman whose life is counting for church and for the world. We have plenty of statistics showing the evil consequences of a bad life and the cause of those evil consequences upon humanity and to the state. How much we need to have some statistics that will tell to the world just how beneficial, just how wholesome, just how good has been the influence of a father or a mother upon the succeeding generation who has made his or her life count as it should count We are told that the descendants of one couple amounts to 800 in one century and 50,000 in two centuries Then since one man and one woman, united together in heart and life, sent out through a century 800 people and 50,000 in two centuries how tremendous is the influence that is eminating from every father and every mother and every couple that lives upon the face of the earth.

"In order that you appreciate and understand the force and current, it is necessary that you go up stream, as it were to go back over the course and come against the currents that are so swift and so strong, so it is well that we go back up stream for a little while to understand and appreciate the currents of influence that are sweeping down and out, upwards, into all eternity

"The Mississippi river finds its source in Lake Itaska, a little lake no longer than six miles in length—crystal, clear and beautiful, and from that lake starts a tiny stream and as that stream winds itself away towards the Gulf of Mexico, the Missouri river pours its waters into this stream and joins those that have gone before it; into this river other rivers pour their streams, and as this mighty river has gathered into her bosom these other streams that have run across miles of territory, we are made to realize the great force of nature that has locked between the banks, that wonderful stream, and back yonder in the dim distant past a man or woman, started perhaps at the alter of love, started a stream of life and a stream of influence and down that stream as it grows in volume, other lives have poured this influence until after a while these two lives have poured influence into other lives out of the great ocean of eternity.

"We are here today to pay tribute to the man we lovingly call 'Dad' and to the woman we lovingly call 'Mother,' who in their day and generation have poured into this great stream their lives and their influences As we stand upon the bank of the stream and lay for hours and enjoy its beauties and receive its blessings, we take off our hats to the man or woman of another generation who lived for us and poured out their love and influence and left for us a legacy of influence so wholesome and good as to be a blessing all the years of our life. Perhaps the present generation does not love the Lois and the Eunices, and it is well that now and then we stop for a while, and tell father and mother, the Eunice and Lois, how much we owe to them and how much we appreciate them No matter how forgetful a son or daughter may be in the busy affairs of life, there comes a time when that son or daughter goes back in the hour of trouble and there comes a calming, soothing touch of their hands that seems almost supernatural when in that hour of trouble they are taken back to father and mother There is a wisdom that comes from God through experience that seems past our understanding when that old father and mother, wrinkled and gray, pour into our ears of distress wise fatherly and motherly counsel and love, and we take off our hats to them and rejoice that the Great Father has spared them to us and we bless His name that they have been given to us as wise examples, who understand, and happy is the home that, on this Mother's day, finds sitting there somewhere a Lois or a Eunice, spared of God to the home spared of God to the children, and we who are wearing the flower that signifies that a Lois or Eunice has gone out of our home, understand more today what this day means, than those who have the happy privilege of kissing the lips and faces of those good men and women who have been spared to your lives. Often times father and mother, sitting in the gloaming on the western slope of life, with the western sun lighting their wringled faces and hearts of silver, wonder if their lives have been worth while, if it is true that they have poured into this great stream of life an influence that has helped someone on the way. This influence sometimes does not reveal itself until another generation has passed and again perhaps not for two generations, but back there somewhere is a father or a mother whose life was clean and good

"Unsuspectedly we see some man or woman develop a splendid life, a wholesome life, a good life and we begin to woder, ad thnere is just one way to influence our lives, and that is to go home and sit down and take the old family Bible and read over and over again the names that are written there, and perhaps back up the line across the generation there is a man or a woman who has poured into this stream of life an influence that tells on a man or woman of today"

'Oh, Tommy Shannon!' said Mr Lane equably—'Tommy's all right, he knows what he's doing All you got to do is let Tommy Shannon alone and he'll ring the gong every shot."

"But if that's the case why did Mr Laughlin take so much trouble to show him—?"

"Well you see, it's this way," Mr Lane explained "King's all right, and Tommy's all right, but if Tommy don't see a scene the 'way King shows him, and King starts to bawl him out, why, Tommy'll just walk off the lot And then where are you? You can't finish your picture without your leading man, can you? And there's maybe a hundred thousand dollars invested in this proposition already One of the first things a director's got to learn in this game is how to handle actors."

"I see," said Lucinda thoughtfully "The way to handle an actor is to let him have his own way"

'You got the idea,' Mr. Lane approved without a smile

"But suppose," she persisted—"suppose the leading man insists on doing something that doesn't suit the part he's supposed to play?"

"That's easy What's your continuity writer for?"

'I don't know, Mr Lane You see I don't even know what a continuity writer is"

'Why, he's the bird dopes out the continuity the director works from—you know, the scenes in a picture, the way they come out on the screen Scene One, Scene Two, and all like that Well, you get your continuity writer, of course, and have him make the change"

"You mean you change the story to please the actor?"

"Sure it's the only thing to do when you got maybe a hundred and fifty or two hundred thousand dollars hung up in a picture."

"Oh, what's a story?" Mr Lane argued reasonably. "People don't go to see a story when they take in an Alma Daley picture They go because they know they get their money's worth when they see a Ben Culp production that's taken from some big Broadway success and costs a hundred and fifty or maybe two hundred thousand dollars But principly, of course, they go to see Alma Daley, because she's the most pop'lar actress on the screen, and makes more money than Mary Pickford"

There was a sudden deluging of the set with waves of artificial light of a weird violet tint, falling from great metal troughs overhead and beating in horizontally from the metal stands or screens, which were now seen to be banks of incandescent tubes burning with a blinding glare.

Nor was this all shafts and floods of light of normal hue were likewise trained upon the scene from a dozen different points, until the blended rays lent almost lifelike coloring to the faces of the actors, whose make-up had therefore seemed ghastly and unnatural to uninitiated eyes.

'Camera'

The command came from King Laughlin Lucinda could just hear a muffled clicking

Coached by Mr Laughlin who danced nervously upon the side lines the scene was enacted

'Now Tommy, come on—slowly—hold the door—look around make sure the room is empty—hold it—now shut the door—up to the table—don't forget where to put your hat—'sright splendid' Now you look at the other door—listen—show me that you don't hear anything—good' Open the drawer—easy now, remember you're trying not to make a noise—look for the papers—show me you can't find them My God' where can they be' That's it Now you hear a noise off—(Ready, Alma')—shut the drawer—start to pick up your hat—too late' Come on Alma—come on' You don't see him, you look out of the window and sigh—let's see you sigh Alma—beautiful' beautiful' Now, Tommy, you move—she sees you—see him Alma Slowly—hold it—wonderful' Now call to him Alma—Egbert' Egbert'!"

The little man's voice cracked with the heart-rending pathos he infused into that cry, he continued to dance and bark directions at star and leading man till the door closed behind Miss Daley's frantic exit

"Good! Now we'll shoot the close-ups."

The camera was brought forward and trained at short range on the spot where Miss Daley had fallen several stands of banked lights likewise were advanced and adjusted. The actress lay in a broken heap with her face buried on her arms the camera once more began to clink and Mr King Laughlin squatting by its side, prepared to pull the young woman through the scene by sheer force of his inspired art

But now the passion which before had kept him hopping and screaming had passed into a subdued and plaintive phase; Mr Laughlin was suffering for and with the heroine whose woes were to be projected before the eyes and into the hearts of half the world He did not actually cry, but his features were knotted with the anguish that wrung his heart, and his voice was thick with sobs

"Now dear, you're coming to—you just lift your head and look up, dazed You don't realize what's happened yet, you hardly know where you are Where am I, my God' where am I? That's it—beautiful, Now it begins to come to you He has cast you off—O my God' he has deserted you Fine—couldn't be better—you're great, dear, simply great. Now go on—begin to cry, let the big tears well up from your broken heart and trickle down your cheeks. Fine' Cry harder, dear—you must cry harder, this scene will go all floosy if you can't cry any harder than that. Think what he was to you—and now he has left you—who knows?—perhaps for-ev-er' Your heart is breaking, dear, it's breaking, and nobody cares. Can't you cry harder Listen to the music and . . . God God' how d'you expect anybody to cry to music like that?"

The last was a shriek of utter ex-

She set her arms akimbo, her eyes were quick with baleful lightnings.

asperation, and bounding to his feet the little man darted furiously at the musicians, stooping in front of the trio and beginning to beat time with an imaginary baton.

"Follow me, please—get this, the way I felt it. So—slowly—draw it out—hold it—get a little heart-break into it!"

And strangely enough he did manage to infuse a little of his fine fervor into the three

Throughout, on the floor before the camera, under that cruel glare of lights, Alma Daley strained her face toward the lens and cried as if her heart must surely break, real tears streaming down her face—but cried with fine judgment, never forgetting that woman must be lovely even in woe

While Lucinda watched, a strange voice saluted her.

In Lane's place sat a stout man of middle-age with a sanguine countenance of Semitic type, shrewd and hard but good-humored

"How d'you do?" he said genially "This is Mrs. Druce, ain't it? Only my name, Ben Culp."

IX

Of a sudden Miss Daley missed her mentor's voice, and in the middle of a sob ceased to cry precisely as she might have shut off a tap.

In a moment of uncertainty, still confronting the clicking camera, still bathed in that withering blaze, she cast about blankly for her runaway director. Then discovering that he had, just like a man! deserted her in her time of trouble to fellow a hand, outraged womanhood asserted itself.

The fiery creature who sprang to her feet with flashing eyes and scornful mouth was hardly to be identified with the forlorn little thing who, only a few seconds since, had been groveling and weeping on the floor.

As one who finds the resources of her mother tongue inadequate, Miss Daley in silence fixed with a portentious stare the back of King Laughlin, who, all ignorant of the doom hovering over his devoted head, kept on swaying airily to and fro, smiling his ecstatic smile and measuring the music with fluent hands.

One of the Daley feet began to tap out the devil's tatoo, she set her arm akimbo, her eyes were quick with baleful lightnings, her pretty lips an ominous line; an ensemble that only too clearly foretold: At any minute, now!

With a smothered grunt, Mr. Culp heaved out of his chair and lumbered over to his wife, interposing his bulk between her and the unconscious object of her indignation. Whatever Culp said, it proved effectual, for nothing worse came of Miss Daley's wrath, at least publicly, than a shrewish retort inaudible to bystanders, a toss of her head, and a sudden, stormy flight from the scene.

"That's the sort of thing you're up against all a time in the filium business, d'y'see," sighed Mr. Culp with a rueful grin. "A lot of kids, that's what we got to make pitchers with And audiences all a time kickin' because we don't make 'em better . . . A lot of kids!"

Lontaine presented him to each of his guests, and thus reminded of the first purpose of their visit, which he seemed to have forgotten altogether, Mr. Culp delayed long enough to call a worried young man with the eyeshade, Mr Willing, and charged with supervision of the proposed tests

Here's Good Advice: Relieve Your Fatigue With Sleep. Avoid Stimulants

THERE is nothing in the world so reconstructive as sound, refreshing sleep. During sleep the system rids itself of the fatigue poisons that have accumulated during the day. The food elements are taken up by the various tissues that require rebuilding nutriment.

It is important that you get plenty of health-bringing sleep. Anything that interferes with your sleep hampers and hinders you—mentally and physically.

A common cause of physical weakness and mental depression is the reaction following over-stimulation by the drug, caffeine, and other elements found in both coffee and tea.

If you have an idea that coffee or tea drinking may be injurious to your health, why not stop it for a week or so, and drink delicious, fragrant Postum instead.

Postum is a rich, golden-brown, pure cereal beverage. It contains no harmful elements of any kind. You can drink Postum as many times a day as you or the children desire a grateful, refreshing beverage.

Your grocer sells both forms of Postum: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for fully 20 minutes.
